HOW TO UTILIZE DIFFERENCES TO FORM CONNECTIONS AS A THERAPIST*

DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM

Cultural Humility is of paramount importance in the clinical space.

Current discourse has appropriately centered on marginalized groups finding a voice. This workshop aims to stretch the present dialogue into aspects of culture that mental health practitioners encounter in the clinical setting. These include, but are not limited to: immigration status, country of origin, subculture/tribe of origin, religion, language, ethnicity, race, gender identity, sexual orientation, class, and skin color.

This presentation will ask participants to self-reflect on their own cultural awareness and humility in order to enhance their practice and multicultural sensitivity.
